— THE ESTHER KLEIN PHILOSOPHY

The Art of One.

One client at a time.

One personalized vision.

One artist's undivided attention.

For Esther Klein, beautiful color and styling begin with something increasingly rare: the time to listen, understand, and focus entirely on the person in her chair.

— MEET ESTHER

A colorist who listens first

Esther Klein is a hair colorist and stylist in South Palm Beach, Florida, where she works with one client at a time at MAURICI®. A L'Oréal Professional Master Stylist & Colorist, she has spent 35 years behind the chair in Greenwich, Connecticut and Palm Beach, trained with Vidal Sassoon and Paul Mitchell, and was voted Best Stylist in Palm Beach Best 2024. Her approach starts with listening: she shapes every cut and color around the client's hair, face and lifestyle, mixes each shade for the client's skin, eyes and hair, and finishes color with a glaze for shine. Her work ranges from soft, lived-in blonde and dimensional brunette to color correction and gray blending. Esther is available for interviews, expert commentary and contributed articles.

What undivided attention looks like

01

She listens first

Every appointment begins with a conversation about how you live with your hair, what you love and what you would change. Esther takes her time.

02

Every shade is yours alone

She mixes each color for the client's skin, eyes and hair, and shapes the cut around her hair, face and lifestyle.

03

Finished with care

Color is finished with a glaze for shine, so the result looks healthy, luminous and natural.

“Great hair isn’t just a trend. It’s a feeling.”

ESTHER KLEIN

“The best hairstyle is the one that makes you feel like the most authentic, beautiful version of yourself.”

— THE PERSONAL CONSULTATION

Listening comes first

Every appointment with Esther begins before a single strand is touched. She asks how you wear your hair on an ordinary Tuesday, how much time you spend on it in the morning, what you love about it now and what you would change. Photos help, and so do the looks you have tried before and did not like.

Esther takes her time with these questions because the answers change the plan. A color that is beautiful in a photograph is not always the right color for a woman who swims every morning, or who would rather visit the salon every twelve weeks than every six. Listening first is how the result ends up fitting the person, not the other way around.

Esther is available to talk about

The Art of One

Why one-on-one appointments change the result: listening, custom formulas and unhurried finishing.

Gray: cover it, blend it or embrace it

An honest look at full coverage, soft blending and transitioning, and the upkeep each asks for.

Blonde that grows out gracefully

Root placement, toning and refresh schedules for blonde that still looks good at week eight.

Color first, then highlights

Why many of Esther's clients start with an all-over shade for richness and add highlights for light.

Balayage or foils in a humid climate

How placement, toning and care change when hair lives in South Florida sun and humidity.

Rescuing brassy, grown-out color

A colorist's step-by-step thinking on correction, with real before-and-after examples.

The case for dimensional brunette

How a brunette gets depth and shine without heavy lightening.

Shine as the new status symbol

Glosses, glazes and the habits that keep color-treated hair reflective.

“The ultimate trend is hair that looks and feels healthy. Shine, strength and hydration never go out of style.”
